

SAFTI FIRST Launches mySAFTI App for iPhone, iPod Touch and iPad

December 21, 2010

SAFTI FIRST in San Francisco has released the mySAFTI app, an interactive design tool that the company says “takes the guesswork out of choosing the correct fire-rated glass product.”

Architects, specifiers and glazing professionals can quickly use their iPhone, iPod Touch or iPad to make their selection based on fire rating or application, according to the company. In addition, the app allows users to view product data, size charts, save favorites and request information via e-mail.

“We understand that architects, specifiers and glazing contractors are busy professionals who are always on the go, and have come to rely on their mobile devices for numerous things,” says William O’Keeffe, president and chief executive officer of SAFTI FIRST. “We are happy to provide this free app that enables them to easily select the correct fire-rated glass product anytime and anywhere.”
